

manifesto

Wears will be a second-hand clothing store for fashion outside of coercive structures.

It'll look something like this:

Not separating items by gender

- Why reproduce the normative?

Recommended pricing

- Money should not be a barrier to self expression (or anything)

Donate something, take something away

- Fostering a gift economy through permanent clothes swap

Retailing locally designed garments

- Supporting non-industrial production alongside second-hand reuse

Sharing tools and knowledge

- Learning together how to make, fix, and subvert our rags & futures

We're part of Ōtepoti Possibilities Cooperative, so we'll be:

Owned by the workers

- Your donations & patronage support the project and its people

Waving the plain black tee

- Demonstrating the collective opulence of anarchism

Going bossless

- Organising without hierarchies and working with trust

Doing it for fun and fashion

- Not saving the world, just making life better for the people around us
